Overview

When news articles discuss superintendents of different demographic backgrounds ...

- Coverage Bias: Do they display equal interest?
- Nominal Bias: Is there equal respect in how they refer to superintendents from different demographic backgrounds? (E.g. Is there a discrepancy in the proportion of times “Dr.” instead of the superintendents’ first names are used?)
- Sentimental Bias: Do news articles express equal sentiment and power levels?
- Lexical Biases: Is there any difference in the words used or topics covered?
